OUR SINCERE APPRECIATION....

....to the advertiser, who made our book possible.

....to the Kennell-Ellis Studio in Eugene who ably assisted us with difficult photography.

....to R. Wallace Pischel, Inc. who diligently worked to fulfill our expectations.

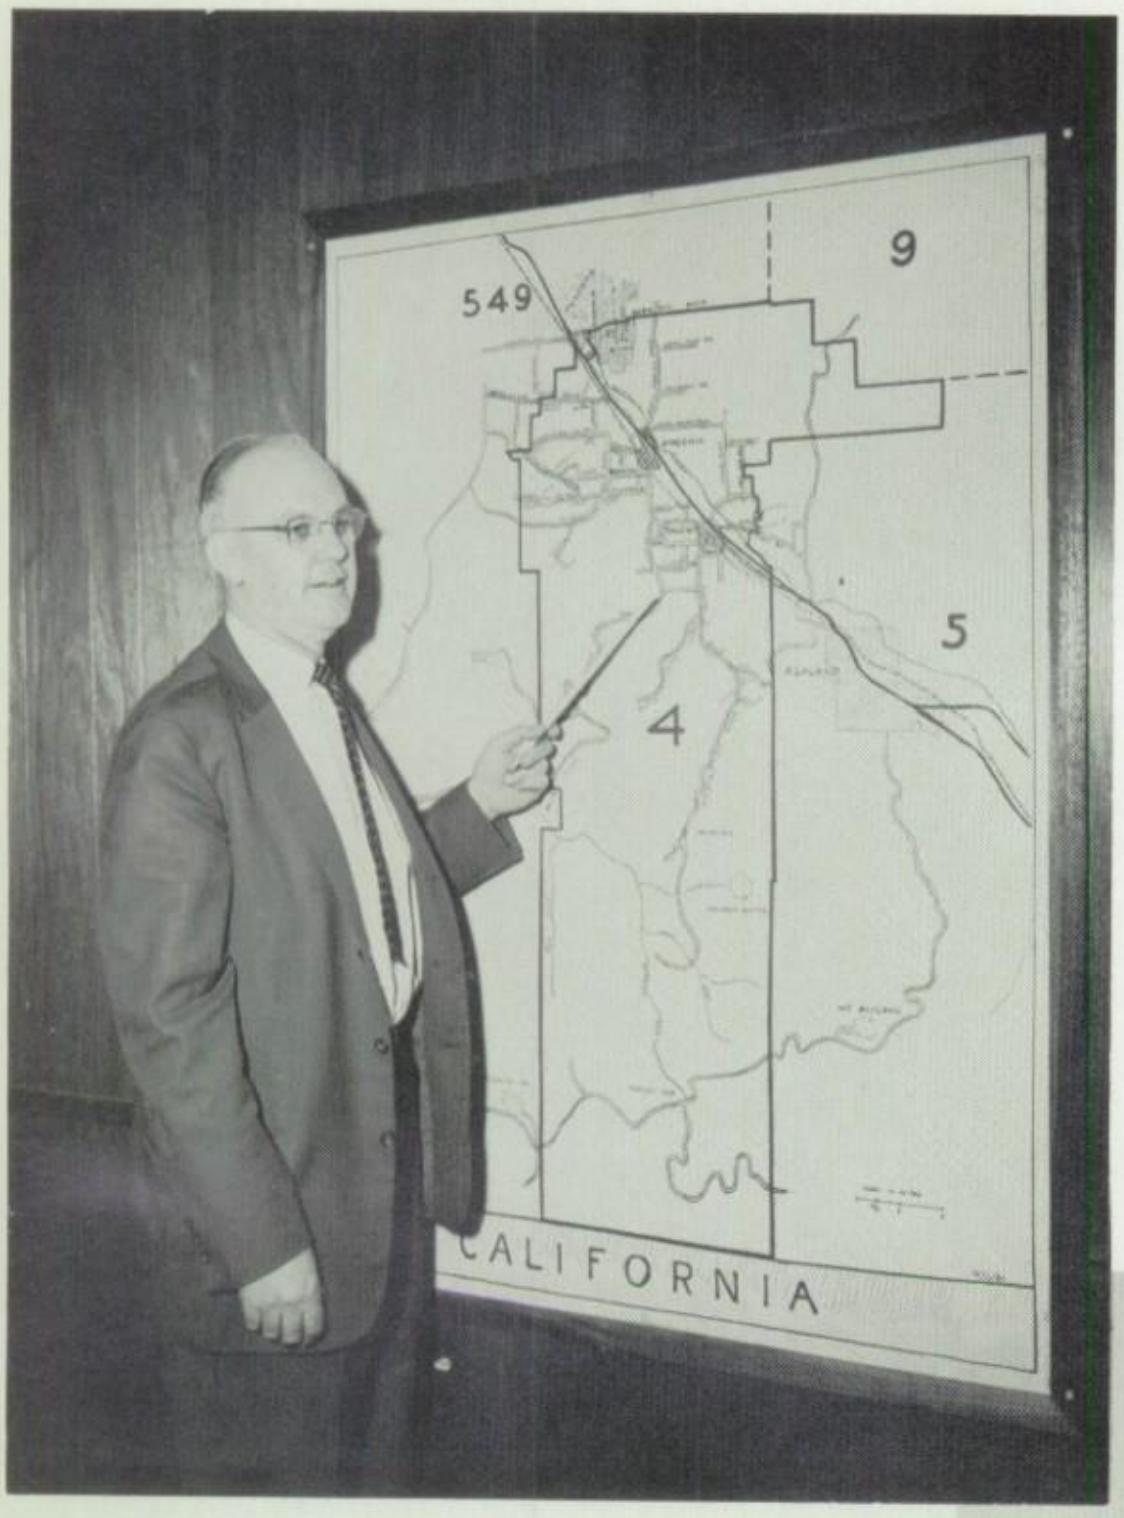
....to Mrs. D. James and Mr. Kuchler, our advisors, whose guidance and judgment were invaluable.

Dedication

The years we spent in secondary school are care-free years; years without the burdensome responsibilities that soon come to all who take their place in our society. The social events enjoyed now are many and varied, far more than those of later life.

The knowledge we gain each day is both useful and pleasant to absorb; far less painful than that gained by rude experience. The exhilaration we experience in sharing our common interests and pleasures with others is often lost when one day we find that we may sometimes share with our fellows only a necessity for survival. It is for these reasons that we dedicate this yearbook to the marvelous world of the imagination called Never-Never Land, a land where carefree Pirates roamed, as much without the realizations of their good fortune as some may do today--it was the land of Peter Pan...who chased his shadow much as students chase the elusive mist called knowledge...it was the land at the second star to the right... and all one needed to get there was trust in those a little bit wiser and a pinch of "pixie dust"...it was a land to be compared to the halls of PHS, for only the young could go there; and once they left, they could never never return to the pleasures that it held.

Capable Navigators



Congratulations, seniors, on the completion of what you will discover is to be the first step in your education. High schools in the nation are now undergoing the greatest change in their educational development in the last 50 years. Our students have been meeting this challenge and must continue to do so in order to take their place in the colleges and in the vocational fields of the future for which they will be training.

We have every confidence that our current and incoming Phoenix High School students will realize the increasing importance of completing their high school education. We base this confidence on the fine record made by past Phoenix students in scholarship and activities. Maintain your respect for education, for upon it depends your future happiness.

E. R. Dames

Phoenix High School is a friendly school with an enviable sports record and high scholastic achievement. This is due to the efforts and the attitude of our students. An outstanding student council and a fine co-operative student body enabled us to continue in our quest for yet higher scholarship and a superior education for all students.

E. M. Skipworth

Chartered Our Course

Handling the affairs of the Phoenix School District challenged this year's school board, and they demonstrated to the community that they could meet this challenge by performing their given tasks in a superior fashion. Members of the board are: STANDING: Dr. Donald McGeary, Mr. Allen Harris, Mr. Melvin Lattie. SEATED: Supt. Earnest R. James, Mrs. Joyce Goodrich, Mr. Bruce Cyphers, Chairman, Mrs. Florence Drake, Clerk, and Mr. Merle Simmonds.

Besides fulfilling his other tasks and jobs with enough zest and enthusiasm that they became a complete success, Mr. Bob Myrick proved by performance that he was an excellent choice to fill the position of Dean of Boys. Here Mr. Myrick is conferring with Student Body President Mike Consbruck about student affairs.

Mrs. Mildred Thames earned the student respect she gained as a result of her position as Dean of Girls, for she proved to be very sympathetic and understanding toward all students and an ardent and earnest listener to the problems of those conferring with her.

A large percent of Phoenix and Talent students were transported by bus. The bus drivers were: Charles Swingle, Lewis Chapman, Walt Bolz, Merle Cook, William Saladin, John Morse, Al Fenton, Jack Harrow. IN BACK: Gouverneur Skinner and Norman Wade.

Those women who prepared food for the students during the year were: Phyllis Tomlin, Leila Sparks, Sybil Squire, Nelda Hanscom, Margaret Wallace.

The tidiness and cleanliness of Phoenix High School was due to the hard work of the custodians. The individuals who kept the grounds and buildings in such good order were: Mr. Cliff Wallace, Mr. Osa Wagner, Mrs. Ada Kerby, and Mr. Lewis Chapman.

Corsair Leadership Bold

The 1961-1962 Student Council played a very important part in the affairs of students throughout the school year. In this meeting the leaders of the student body discussed and adopted the new constitution. Other accomplishments of the student council were the arrangement of social activities, selection of nominees for 1963 Student Body Officers, and a general representation of the students' opinions. Members shown here are Pam Grove, Chyrl Bowman, and Mike Consbruck.

and Bounteous in 61-62

Student Body President Mike Consbruck, presided over a weekly Student Council meeting. Members who participated in discussion were John Kerns, Ron Williams, Gary Colfax, Rick Richey, Terry Hanson, Mr. Bob Myrick, Advisor.

1961-1962 STUDENT BODY OFFICERS: Sandy Dickinson, Treasurer; Mike Consbruck, President; Chyrl Bowman, Secretary; Rick Richey, Vice President.

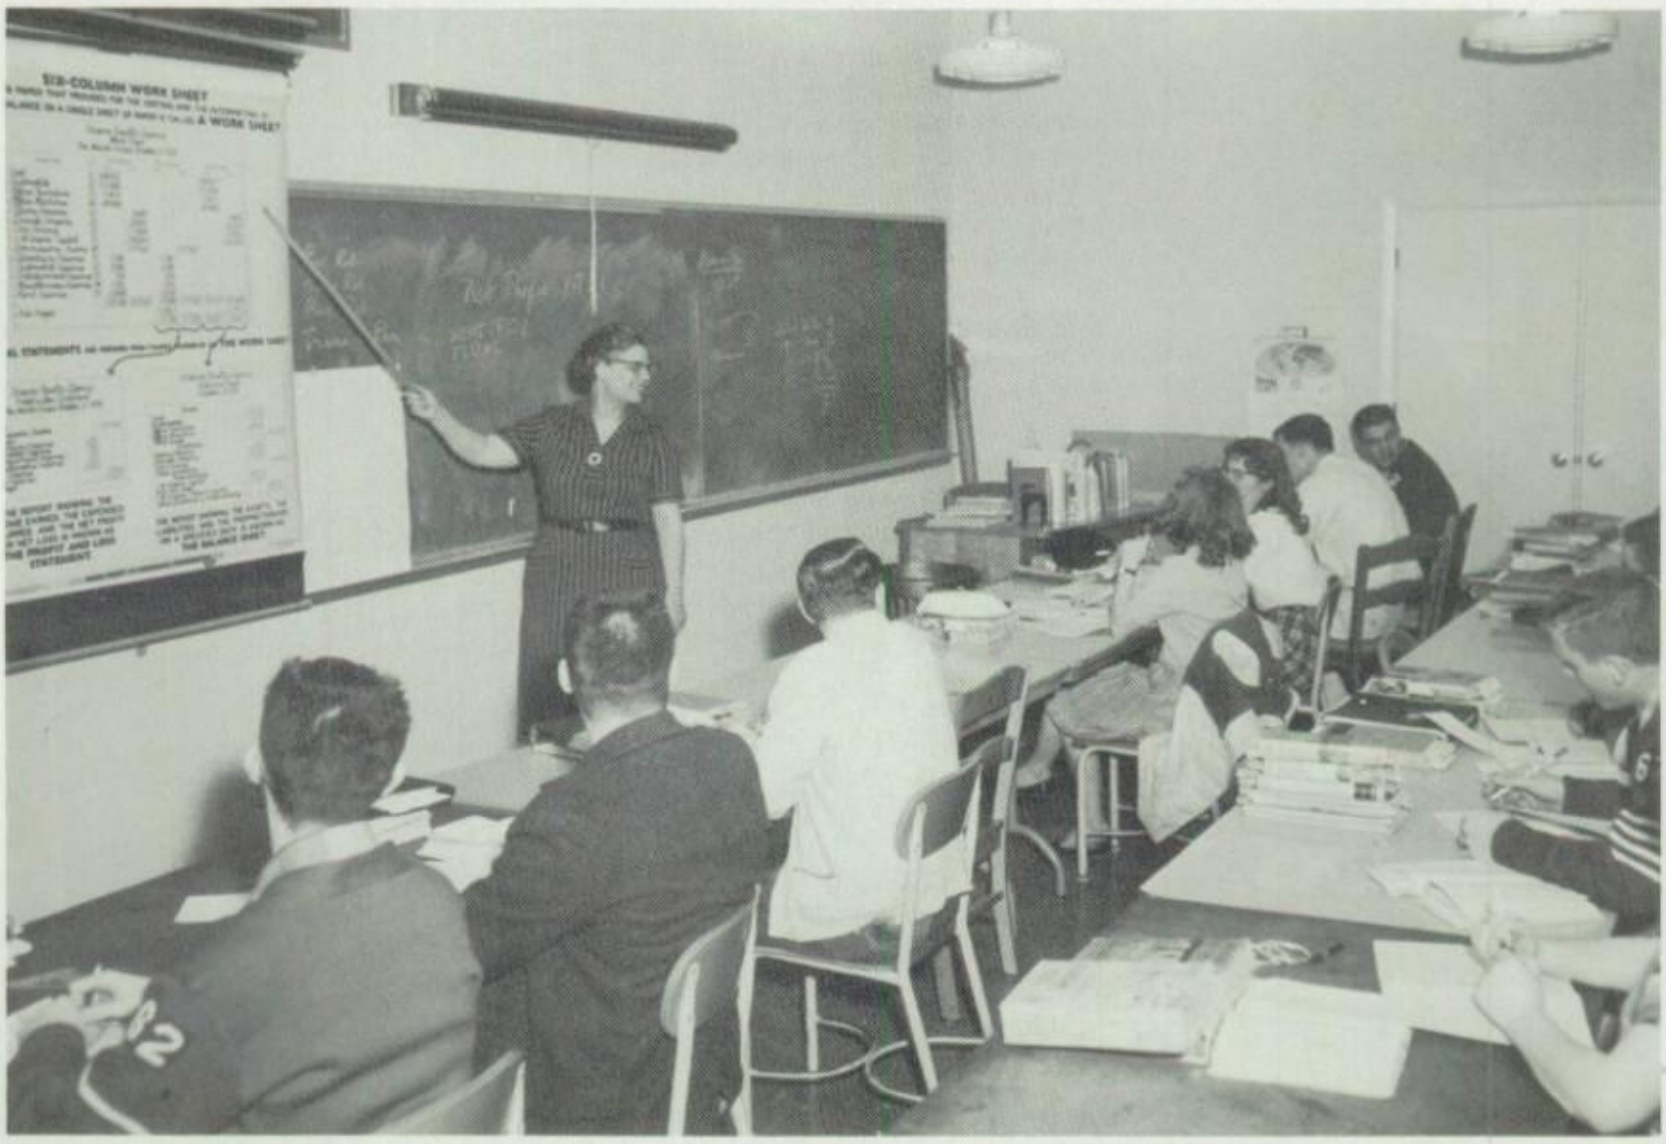
Buccaneer Skill Demonstrated

Patient Wendy spent hours before the fire in Never-Never Land, reading to the children so that they might gain knowledge not only for enjoyment but also for use in the dangerous world outside their cozy room. She may well have served as an example to the equally patient instructors in our own halls for despite a semingly casual atmosphere, they strived intensely day after day to provide an education for the students not only to enjoy, but to utilize in the atomic society they would someday face. Whether it was trigonometry, woodworking, English literature or shorthand, the knowledge imparted throughout the year was presented with the hope that it would awaken youthful minds and help convert their ideas into reality. Although perhaps there were often strong doubts concerning the successful fulfillment of this goal, by the end of the year each of the students had gone a large step further into the realm of wisdom, and, like Wendy, the teachers could close their books with their efforts rewarded by the satisfaction of a task well done.



BOOKKEEPING STUDENTS: John Morrison, Gary Colfax, Charles Wade, Beverly Perkins, Lona Wright, Tim Allen, Terry Hanson, and Rick Seymour discovered that learning the bookkeeping procedures was made less difficult when Mrs. Donna James demonstrated.

in Commercial Classes

OFFICE PRACTICE STUDENTS Linda Davis and Chyrl Bowman looked on as Bobbie Jacobs demonstrated her skill at the electric typewriter.

OFFICE PRACTICE INSTRUCTOR Mrs. Mildred Thames supervised Linda Tompkins and Joyce Perkett as they experimented with the various business machines.

SHORTHAND I STUDENTS Judy Stewart, Sally Strong, Pat Bentley, Joyce Rutherford, Pat Shurts, and Jo Dean made different comments on their progress indicated on the speed chart.

The knack of creating and having visible results for work spent spurred Randy Oetken, Pat Bentley, Jo Dean and Dot Bilderback to try their hand at different fields of ART. Whether carving, painting or molding, these students seemed content to experiment freely.

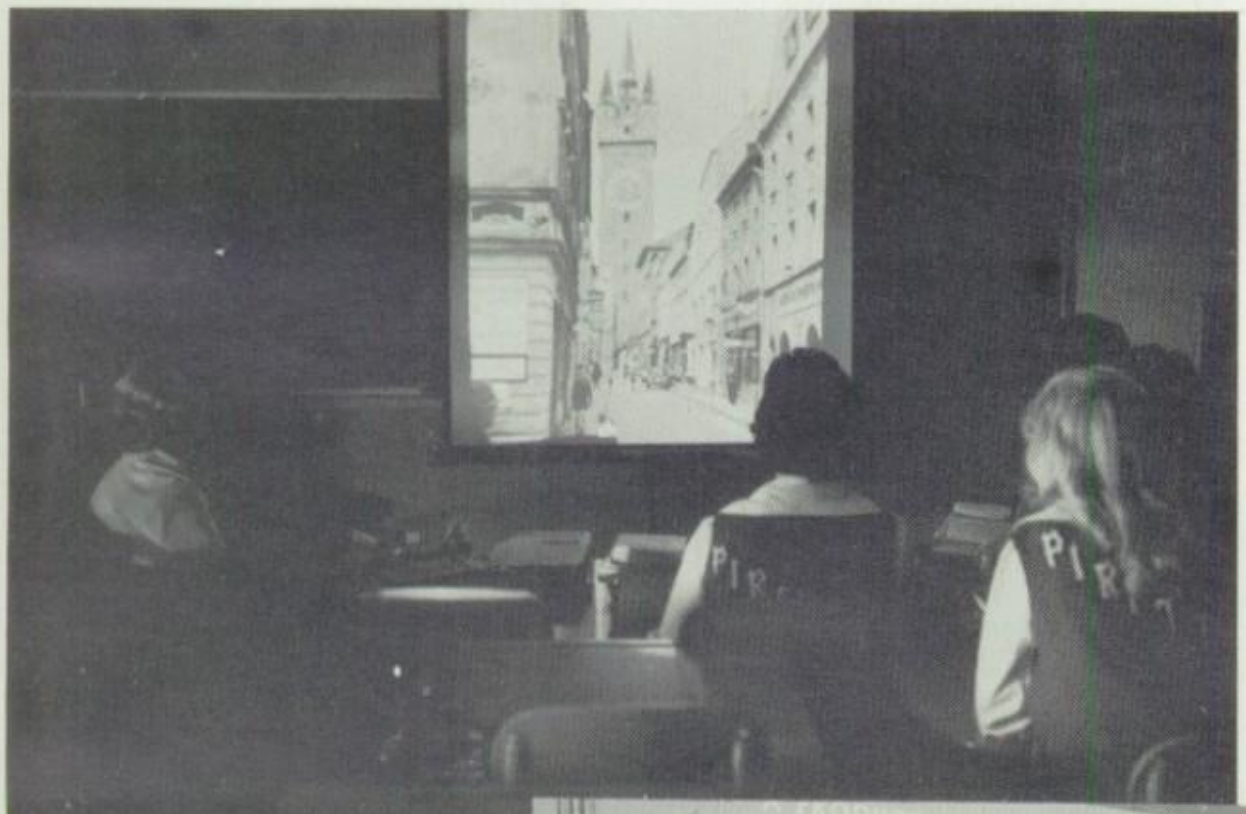
A course in HOME NURSING and BABY CARE under the supervision of Mrs. Jeanette Grove taught Sue Howell, Cherie Sterton, Marcy Willoughby, Bonnie Faytinger, Audrey Cutburth and Betty Roberts how a baby is cared for properly and how he should be raised.

Useful Abilities Stressed in Phoenix Classrooms

Here Deneice Thompson, Charlene Epperson, Linda Covey, Dona Tompkins, and Sara Shockley demonstrated their eagerness by washing the dishes before HOME-MAKING CLASS was dismissed.

Sandra Cleveland, Lola Boyd, Sharon Baker, Annette Carter, Kathy LaFleur, Karen Baker, and Terri Campbell apply the fundamental steps of sewing to their individual desires.

Sharon Bergren, Janie Sult, Diana McDowell, Susie McCray, Linda Cox, and Eugene Hill, SPANISH I STUDENTS, make use of the vital facilities in the language lab.



GERMAN I STUDENTS view slides taken by Mr. John Kuchler, instructor, when he visited Germany.

LATIN II CLASS MEMBERS, April Burnette, Saundra Nelson, Joyce Critten, Sandy Dickinson, Mariann Furrer, and Sue Thrapp portrayed varied expressions while Jan Stone and Wayne Singley wrote common Romar expressions on the board. Instructor Mrs. Sims observed.

Classroom Routines Varied Daily

SENIOR ENGLISH (Top), Mrs. Ruby Messenger, instructor, and JUNIOR ENGLISH STUDENTS under the direction of Mrs. Lynn Powell proved their English abilities by producing original and imaginative themes and interpreting various types of literature.

Studious Searobbers Steal Knowledge

ALGEBRA I students, Steve Dube, Louise McDowell, Tim Faytinger, Cheryl Bolz, and Mary Bell gazed with comprehension at a chart explaining the number system.

Another of Mrs. Mildred James' ALGEBRA I classes worked diligently to complete their daily assignment.

from Academic Treasure Chests!

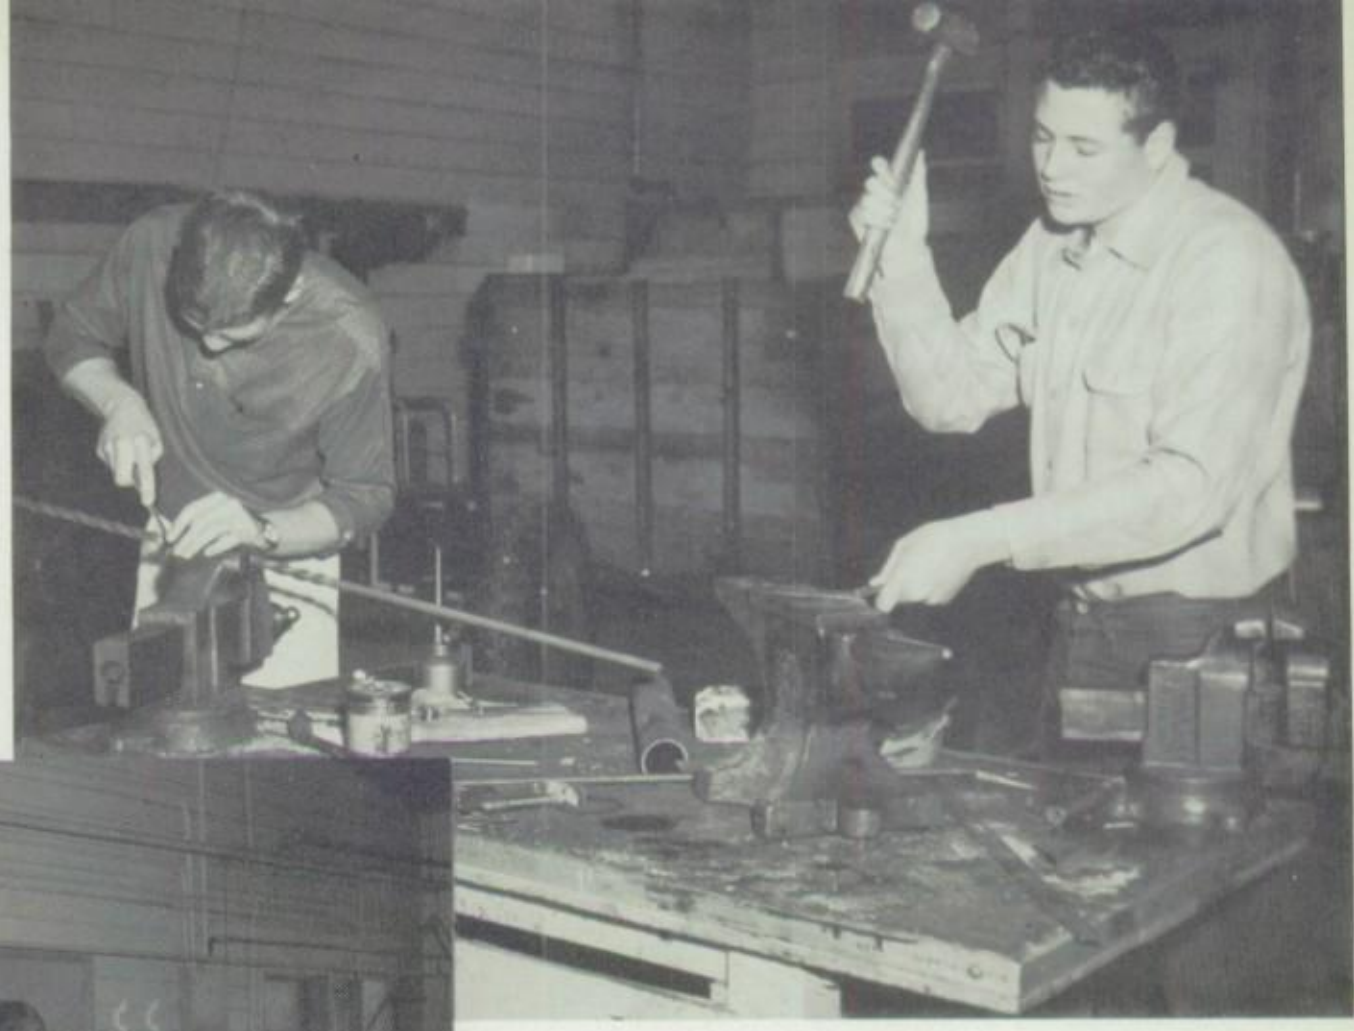
Instructor Robert Cessnun drilled PHYSICS STUDENTS, Jerry Reichstein, Nancy Seiber, Park Clark, Steve Martin, Wade Vanbebber, Rick Seymour, Mike Olson, Art Diederich, Louis Maudlin, Bob Hunter, Rickey Richey, Terry Hanson and George Gleim, until they understood the fundamentals of this difficult subject.

Mr. Don Mitchell's BIOLOGY CLASS dug for various organisms which they later dissected.

Mr. Van Tilford supervises his GEOGRAPHY CLASS in the study of various regions in the world.

Under the watchful eye of substitute teacher, Mrs. Hadley, WORLD HISTORY student Ramon Mata indicates strategic spots on the map as his fellow classmates listen.

Steve Kesler and Gary McGarity worked in the shop on metal projects with great enthusium and eagerness.



WOODWORKING CLASS attracted the interests of Dale Redding, Tim Faytinger, and Paul Diederich. Here they strive to put the finishing touch on the products of their endeavors.

Pat Bentley, Steve Martin, Ken Zin, Rick Jennings, Fred Swingle, Rickey Richey, Ava Bishop, John Foster and Louis Maudlin were acquainted with drafting principles through the careful instruction of Mr. Darrell Paxson.

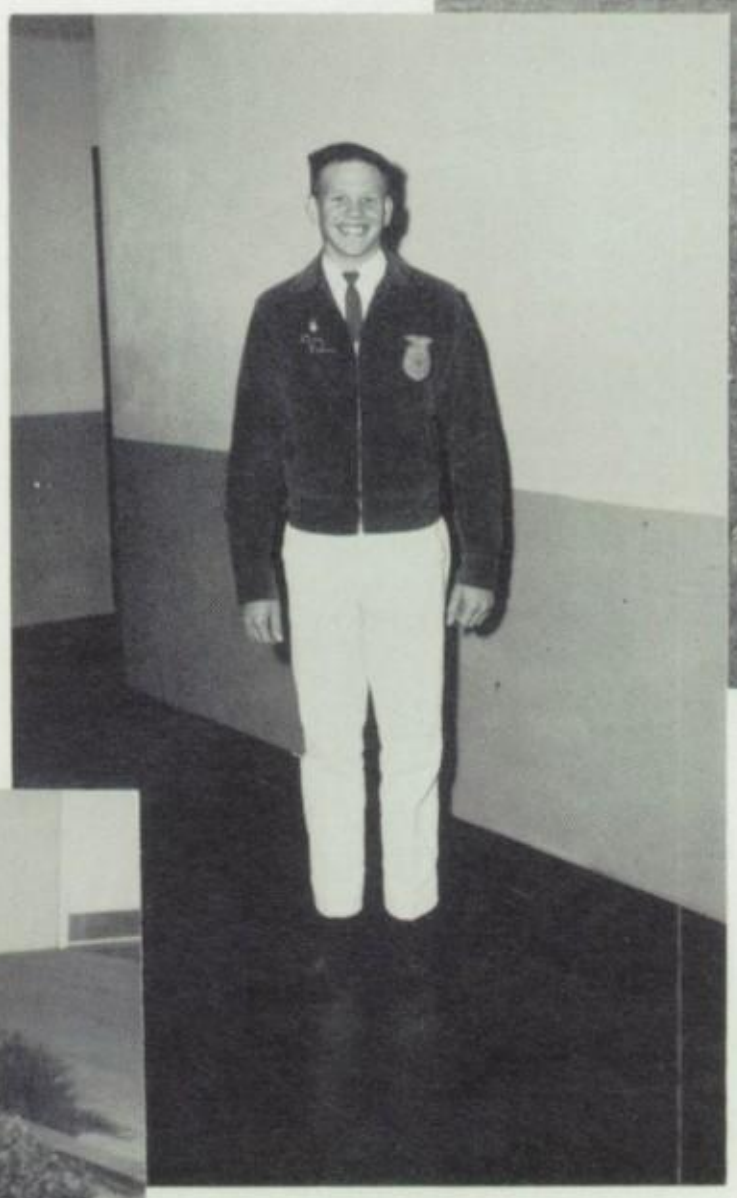
Determined, Ambitious Seniors

Phoenix High School policy was altered this year concerning scholastic senior honors. Instead of the traditional valedictorian and salutatorian, a select group of eleven students were chosen to represent the class scholastically. The Honor Students were: FIRST ROW: Terry Hanson, Frank Thorpe, Sande Beddoe. SECOND ROW: Chyrl Bowman, Nancy Seiber. STANDING: Sandy Dickinson, Dari Popow, Bonnie Faytinger, Dianne Carter, Kay DeMers, Barbara Beer.

At commencement exercises, five seniors were given the highest awards that can be obtained at Phoenix High School. The faculty awarded these honors on the basis of the students' service and their activities during the four years of high school. These seniors were: Terry Hanson, Outstanding Senior Boy award; Chyrl Bowman, Outstanding Girls' Activities; Nancy Seiber, Outstanding Senior Girl award; Mike Consbruck, Student Body President award and Outstanding Citizen; Rick Seymour, Outstanding Boys' Activities award.

Gained Well-Deserved Honors

Senior Nancy Seiber earned the high school honor of being a National Merit Scholarship finalist. As a junior, in March 1961, Nancy took the National Merit qualifying test and was selected as a semifinalist. On December 2, 1961 she took the College Entrance Board and Scholastic aptitude test. She ranked in less than the top one-percent of the nation, thereby qualifying her as a finalist.



This year at the state FFA Convention, Steve Kesler was elected to the office of State Reporter for the year 1962-1963.

Jo Dean was named Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Phoenix High School as a result of competitive exams taken by senior girls.

Roaring 20's Captivates

The second star twinkled brightly many times throughout the year, as the traditional and original activities of the Pirates lightened the school atmosphere. From Sadie Hawkins to Prom night, music, "Pixie-dust," and laughter were present for each event. Even Tinker Bell with her magic wand couldn't have conjured so many ideas and so much ingenuity as were behind every activity, nor could she have better planned the gaiety and excitement each event contributed to the year. Student imagination ran wild with Roarin' 20's, man trappin', fortune-tellers, barn dances, under-sea banquets and many other variations of the usual themes and gimmicks. Enthusiasm spiraled upward as the Pirates discovered the pleasure available through their participation. For some, Never-land seemed real when the doors of comradship flew open. For others, Pirate riches were never so valuable and enjoyable as these times when cares were few and fun was exhuberant. For most, the rich memories these moments provided were an irreplaceable part of the school year.

Homecoming Activities

One of the most successful and memorable occasions of the year was Homecoming sponsored by the student council. Those wonderful years, "The Roaring Twenties", was the featured theme. Starting the day's festivities were students sporting costumes of that glorious decade. The afternoon saw a colorful parade featuring the PHS band, pep club, decorated cars, and gayly outfitted students.

Coronation of the queen took place during half-time activities, at the evening's football game. Capturing the queen's crown was the senior class candidate. Highlighting the Homecoming celebrations was the Queen's Ball following the game. This dance was attended by both alumni and students, and concluded a very sparkling and gayla affair.

Radiantly reigning over Homecoming festivities, the Royal Court, composed of Princess Colleen Learn and escort Fred Swingle, Princess Betty Roberts and escort Ron Whillock, Queen Jo Dean and escort John Morrison, and Princess Annette Carter and escort John Barker posed as they were introduced to onlookers by Dari Popow.

Bringing to an end the Homecoming celebration was the traditional Queen's Ball. This year the senior class candidate captured the crown and ruled over this spirited affair. "Welcome Alumni" was the theme and it brought back many wonderful memories to all graduates who attended.

Fall Activities

Freshmen, sporting crazy hats and singing the school fight song, were initiated during Freshman Initiation Day. After such a day of anxiety, the Freshmen were given a dance at which they were the guests of honor.

"Copper Capers" set the scene for the annual Penny Queen dance, sponsored by the Pep Club. The Purple Penny Eater devoured the PHS students' small change while deciding which princess would be chosen queen. Each princess had a slot in the "Penny Eater" in which money was deposited. The candidate with the most "Penny Eater" food captured the crown.

On Guard! Cap'n--

The Sadie Hawkins Day Dance, sponsored by the Junior Class and traditionally a success, was no exception this year.

While the gals chased, the fellas ran and the captives were then hauled off to Marryin' Sam who performed the marriage rites.

There were games galore and lots of food. Those who attended had an evening that they will long remember.

Barbara Watson and Jon Granby were chosen as the most authentic Daisy Mae and Li'l Abner.

Natalia Reichenberg and Carol Anderson fill out a marriage license for a couple.

Terry Hanson swings blindly at the piñata while others wait anxiously for the goodies.

She'll Keelhaul ya' Sure!

Participating in various activities of the Sadie Hawkins Dance and having a very enjoyable time, were numerous PHS students.

Stardust to

The "Aurora Borealis" was the theme for this year's Winter Formal. These beautiful Northern Lights splashed their many wonderful colors over the dance floor as the couples swayed to the soft music.

Suppressed excitement flowed through the air as the princesses waited to learn who would be chosen queen.

Delicious refreshments topped off this radiant evening.

Queen Linda Davis and escort Rick Seymour danced to the Queen's Waltz.

Surrounding Queen Linda Davis is her court: Chyrl Bowman with escort George Gleim, Linda Ray with Tom Baer, Bonnie Faytinger with John Morlison, and Linda Tompkins with Mike Consbruck. Rick Seymour is the Queen's escort.

Couples glided over the floor as the band played a favorite tune.

the Starboard!

A very successful event during the year was the Mardi Gras. The Pep Club sponsored this time of gaiety and fun.

A sidewalk cafe and low hanging parachutes added a delightful charm to the already perfect atmosphere. A local combo put the finishing touches to this exciting dance. All of this gave everyone a dreamy evening to remember.

Various pairs were entered in the Cutest Couple Contest.

Terry Hanson reigned as King Rex after receiving the most applause from the Mardi Gras audience.

Napoleon (Stuart Vencill) and Little Bo Peep (Sandy Pape) were among the many characters at the Mardi Gras.

Lynn Eilers and Jerry Montgomery make a very impressive pair of jailbirds.

Two of the Chairmen planning the Mardi Gras Activities were Natalia R. and Pam Grove.

The princesses of "Blue Rhapsody" were: Linda Ray with Rick Richey, Dianne Carter with Larry Johnson, Chyrl Bowman with Jerry Montgomery, and Bonnie Faytinger with Dave Johnson. Rick Jennings escorted Queen Sandy Dickinson.

"Blue Rhapsody" was the theme of the 1962 Junior-Senior Prom held at the Rogue Valley Country Club. The room portrayed an underwater scene complete with coral reefs, gleaming fish, and a huge fish net covering the ceiling.

The evening began with an exquisite banquet "topped off" with the reading of the class will and prophecy. Dancing and the Queen's Coronation followed. Junior Class President, John Kerns crowned the Queen.

Sandy Reigns As Queen

Chairmen for the prom were: Betty Roberts, refreshments, Carol Anderson, decorations and general chairman; Darlene Coffman, coronation.

Talented Students

Betty (Bonnie Faytinger) and Harry (John Morrison) are shown here as they battle it out about "that other girl" in the Mask Club's presentation of Doris Estrada's one-act play, "Three on a Bench."

Officer Callahan (Tom Baer) and overstuffed Mrs. Moore (Marj Brood) converse about the lovers Mrs. Moore had brought together by sitting on the bench with them and discusing her late husband, George. The officer, however, has definite romantic ideas about Mrs. Moore, but she doesn't respond.

Display Acting Abilities

The mystery of the high window was solved. Walter (Fletcher Fish) called the police as Judith (Penny Simmonds) checked Emily (Chyrl Bowman). Linda (Lynne Eilers) is recovering from an attempted stranglation.

The Phoenix High Mask Club produced two one-act plays under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Forrester.

"Three on a Bench" was a comedy depicting a young lovers' quarrel over an imaginary "other woman", and an older woman's successful attempt to straighten things out. The entire action took place on a bench in a park.

"High Window" was a mystery drama centered around a window in the ominous and sinister "Winthrop Hall." From this window wealthy Warren Winthrop fell to his death. By logical deduction, the mystery of the high window was solved.

Musical entertainment and expresso coffee highlighted the intermission.

Pirate Extraverts Entertain

The Phoenix High Student Body observed attentively, the many drills and abilities of Happy Daze, clown entertainer who performed at an assembly. His program consisted of unicycle riding, juggling and writing his name from right to left instead of using the conventional method.

Beatnik Pam Grove and nightgown clown Mariann Furrer entertained students adding a light touch to the Student Body campaign assembly. Their jokes and quips served as a method of introducing Rick Richey and Dorothy James, student body candidates for next year, to the Student Body.

Spanish I students enjoyed the hilarious antics of yell leaders Ron Williams and Eugene Hill as they performed with their charm and outstanding co-ordination. All the dialogue in their portrayal was in the Spanish language.

Students, Parents

Narrator Georgia Smith introduced girls of the Homemaking classes of PHS as they modeled the outfits they had made during the school year. The gym was appropriately attired for the occasion with tables around the floor and a winding path on which the girls could pass.

Colleen Learn modeled an original creation.

Karen and Sharon Baker stumped the audience as to "which-is-which" by wearing identical black dresses with white accessories. Sandra Cleveland preceded them in showing her creation which was also accented by white accessories.

Pert Freshmen, Louise McDowell and Cheryl Bolz displayed their pink "look alikes" and matching white accessories to interested parents and teachers.

The Pirates sharpened their sabers and showed the traditional Buccaneer fight this year--in spite of some rough sailing and tough opposition, their skill brought successes throughout each season. The spirit was high and the crew was tops--and with enthusiastic backing of the entire student body, the skull and crossbones were flying high no matter what storms they encountered. Looking back, no one needs a treasure map to see that the praises they received during the year were well deserved as well as bountiful and that the year provided just cause to be "loyal to you, Phoenix High!"

Batten Down

The Phoenix Pirates were undaunted by the cold stormy weather that confronted them in the State Championship Game. Jim Consbruck (44) gets a key tackle to stop a Myrtle Point ball carrier.

The Phoenix Pirates completed their most successful season this year with 11 wins and 1 loss. The loss was to the Ashland Grizzlies in a non-league game. By winning all of our games in Rogue League competition, the Pirates earned the right to play in District 6 A-2 championship game against the Glide Wildcats. The Pirates won this game and therefore captured the title for the third successive year. Their following triumphs led them to the class A-2 championship game of 1961. In this final game, the Pirates played against the Myrtle Point Bobcats. The final score was tied at 13-13, making Phoenix and Myrtle Point co-champions in Oregon A-2 football.

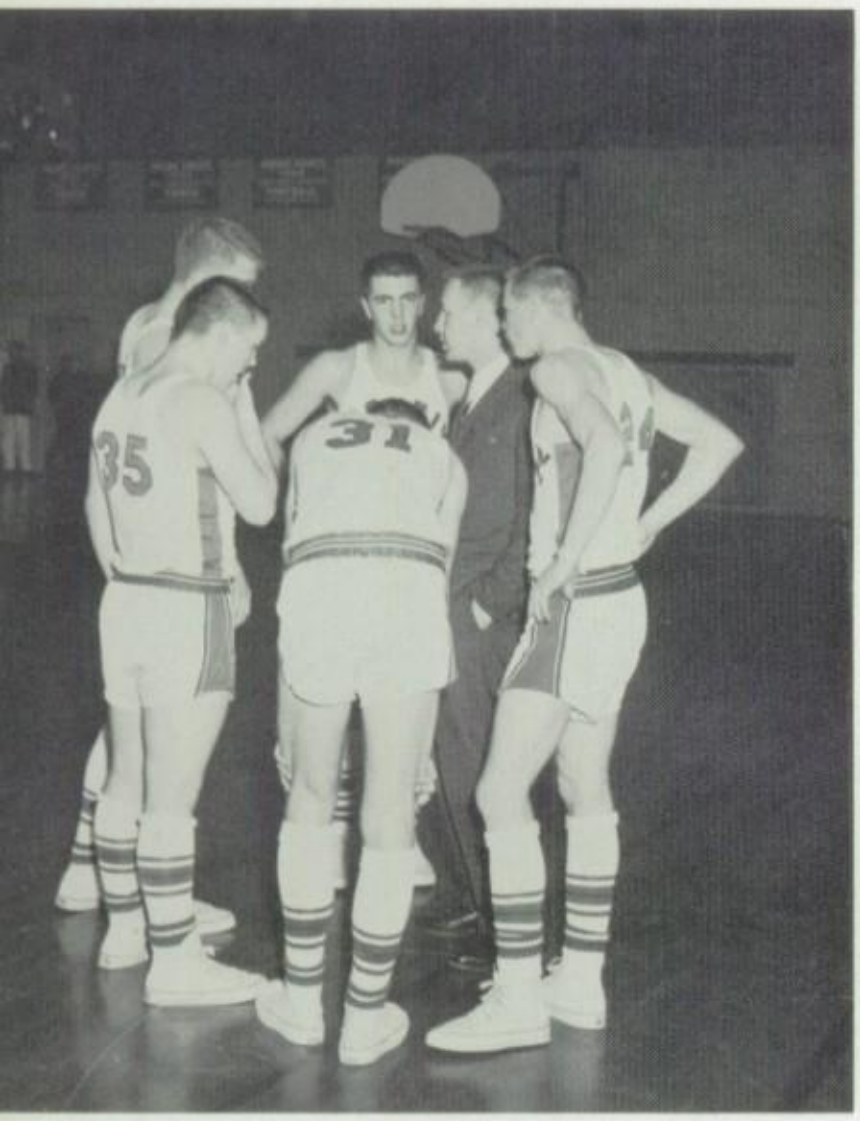
Yo, ho, ho--and a Bottle

Because of the long football season, the Pirates entered the basketball season with a late start. Even with this handicap and the tough league games this year, the Pirate hoopsters managed to finish with a break-even season--6 wins and 6 losses. This put the Pirates in fourth place in Rogue League standings.

The Junior Varsity and Freshman teams also had a good season, winning a majority of their games.



Coach Durham gives final instructions to team members: Rick Seymour, Gary Colfax (35), John Morrison (31),. Terry Hanson, and Curt Harris (24).

ORGANIZATIONS

Achievement Recognized and Due

No matter how quickly they scampered, the Pirates couldn't escape time this year. Whether participating in one organization or several, the students rushed and worked for many an hour to do their parts well. Each group had its own projects and carried them out with praiseworthy efficiency--each had its own goals and fulfilled them effectively--each had its own interests and kept memberships to be proud of. Yet while separate in function, purpose, and composition, the organizations had one important similarity...their invaluable contributions to the school. Perhaps because, like Hook, the Pirates' imaginative and vigorous minds functioned more efficiently when they were pursued by the incessant tick-tocking of the clock, the many and varied clubs not only helped fill the halls with fun, but added more than can be measured to the spirit and successes of the year.

The strength of the Phoenix FFA Chapter this year was in its investment in individual supervised farming programs. The chapter and its individual members claimed over $18,000 invested in livestock, crops, and farming equipment.

The chapter again demonstrated its interest in leadership training. For the second year in succession, a local member was elected by the state association of FFA delegates to a state office. Steve Kesler will hold the office of State Reporter for 1 year.

Active summer participation in local and state livestock shows and contests were planned.

FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA, STANDING: Carolyn Anderson, Sue Howell, Linda Sommer, Joyce Critten, Priscilla Homer, Gail Stone, Natalia Reichenberg, Pam Grove, April Burnette, Michele Dube', Mrs. M. James, Advisor. SEATED: Sandy Dickinson, Mariann Furrer, Dari Popow, Sandy Holt.

Perhaps our little journey through Never Land was fanciful--maybe it was unusual, too--but it illustrated a truth. Never again will we live the school year 1961-1962, and for the 67 who will never again be part of the Associated Student Body of Phoenix High School there will not be a chance to enjoy the free-and-easy life exemplified by this year. These classes, the students, the faculty, and the fun may well be as close as any of us will ever come to the joyful existence experience by Peter Pan and the Pirates in Never-Never Land. For this reason we hope that the 36 weeks spent here will contribute many pleasant memories as we thumb through this volume now and in all the years to come.

Do a real swell guy. I wish I can see all the luck in the world. I hope we'll become real good friends.

Love Linda
Boots

So just about the smallest guys I know and a realgood friend too.
Love and Luck always forever a your friend
Mars

Dear Sweet your sweet and dirty minded but you have a great personality and will go far. I hope you find what you want out of life and be happy in it greatly hope to hear from friends in the future and be glad of lots of luck at high school and be good or Please try.
Love Ya
Bonnie
B.J.

Don't deal with people who take the best of you and give the least in return. Be with people who bring out the best in you. Be with people who make you feel that the sun rises
and sets on you.
